Introducing Bolivia

Get under the skin of Bolivia and you are sure to be charmed by its rich indigenous culture and sweeping altiplanic landscapes. This landlocked country may be smaller than most of its neighbours but it's bound to take your breath away (and not just because of the altitude). From north to south and east to west, Bolivia delights with an array of landscapes, from the Amazon rainforest and the shores of Lake Titicaca to the vast Uyuni Salt Flats and altiplanic deserts that make up the south. As you explore its highlights and other far-from-the-tourist-trail sites, we challenge you not to fall in love with Bolivia.

How to Get to Bolivia

You can travel overland from Chile, Argentina, Paraguay, Brazil and Peru as part of a longer South American itinerary.

If you arrive by plane from overseas, you'll fly into in Le Paz's El Alto airport, Sucre's Juana Azurduy de Padilla airport, Santa Cruz's Viru-Viru airport, or Cochabamba's Jorge Wilstermann airport. Flight time from the UK is approx. 12 hours, via the US. If you're coming from the US, you can fly direct from several major hubs; direct flights are approx. 9-10 hours.

There are hopper flights from the international airport to 37 domestic airports. Distances are vast so this is a popular option. Or travel overland by bus (flotas) or sleeper buses but be warned, the roads are generally unpaved and in terrible condition!

When & Weather – Bolivia

Bolivia's climate is very varied, due to the vast range of altitudes it covers. Simultaneously it can be equatorial in the north, tropical in the south, arid in the Altiplano and cold in the mountains. The Dry Season runs from May to October, when days are bright but nights get very cold. Rainy Season runs from November to March, and the lowlands can experience flooding.

Temperatures range between 15°C (60°F) and 27°C (80°F).

Who will Bolivia Appeal To?

The country's stunning natural landscapes, thrill-seeking activities and indigenous cultural traditions are best suited to: Active travellers - Adventure seekers - Solo travellers - Photographers - Botanists - Wildlife lovers - Culture lovers - Foodies

Accommodation

We work with a range of accommodation in Bolivia from homestays to guesthouses and from boutique hotels to glamping sites.

Off The Beaten Path

Take the cable car from La Paz up to El Alto for its bi-weekly Mercado 16 de Julio, Bolivia's largest open-air market. A fascinating blend of indigenous culture and modern life, you can buy everything from Adidas trainers to llama fetuses!

The untouched village of Chipaya is a traditional Indian community few tourists ever reach.

Go wine tasting in Tarija, home to some of the highest-altitude vineyards in the world.

Wildlife

Swim with pink river dolphin in the Amazon near Rurrenabaque.

The endangered blue-throated macaw is endemic to Bolivia. Spot it in Amboro National Park, along with 830 other bird species.

Several species of pink flamingo live on the Laguna Colorado, and breed on Salar de Uyuni every summer.

Bolivia Experiences you shouldn't miss

Camping on the Salt Flats of Uyuni; sunsets and sunrises are spectacular.

Wandering around the exuberant capital La Paz.

Cycling mountain roads to the tropics of the Yungas.

Travelling Responsibly

At LiNGER we firmly believe that in travel we can do more to help protect our planet.

We take our responsibilities to the environment, local communities, customers, suppliers, partners and employees very seriously and our intention is to constantly review our policies and strive to make improvements where we can.

We offer the opportunity to Give Back by partaking in a meaningful activity in an area that matters to you or where you may have a skillset.

This could be as simple as a beach clean in Sri Lanka to help protect our oceans or caring for orphaned sloths in a wildlife sanctuary in Costa Rica.

LiNGER longer on a sabbatical and devote time to teaching in a village school in Nicaragua or help with a conservation project researching plant species in the Amazon. LiNGER and Enrich Life through Travel.
